MUSEUM LECTURE March 12, 8:15 p.m.

Mr. Gyorgy Kepes, Professor of Visual Design at The Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will discuss "Vision and Value" at 8:15 Friday evening, March 12, in the auditorium of The Cleveland Museum of Art.

Mr. Kepes is also a painter, film maker, designer and author. Born in Hungary, he studied under Istvan Csok at Budapest's Academy of Fine Arts, and in 1930, came to the United States as head of the Light and Color department at the Institute of Design, Chicago. Becoming interested in the converging contribution made by art and science he published his ideas on images common to our expanding inner and outer worlds in THE NEW LANDSCAPE IN ART AND SCIENCE, 1956. In 1944 he had published THE LANGUAGE OF VISION.

During the past few years Mr. Kepes has executed murals and glass designs with mobile lights for some major public buildings. He has had many one-man shows in art galleries and museums and has exhibited in group shows at the Museum of Modern Art, the Carnegie International, the Whitney Museum and others.

Currently seven of his oils are on display in the Cleveland Museum's special exhibit RESTRAINED AND RESTLESS FORMS OF ART, on view through April 5. Some of his works are in permanent museum and gallery collections.
